

The verbose-note style

This citation style is similar to `verbose` in that it prints a verbose citation similar to the full bibliography entry when an item is cited for the first time. All subsequent citations are pointers to the footnote containing the verbose citation. This style is exclusively intended for citations given in footnotes.

This style defines a package option called `pageref` which adds the page to the footnote number pointing to the full citation if it is located on a different page or page spread (depending on the setting of the `pagetracker` option). Set the package option `pageref=true` or simply `pageref` in the preamble if you want such references rendered as ‘see note 3, page 5’.
